

An evening to inspire, enrich and uplift you & your relationships.

Relationships: Blaming, Projecting & Observing

Do you wish all your relationships were like the one you have with your dog: where you are unconditionally loved and accepted without expectations, resentments or judgments? How can you turn your relationships into your source of comfort, solace and joy? What are your relationships telling you about you? What if "all" your relationships, particularly the most difficult ones, are here to bless you?

Enjoy this evening with Inely, John-Rick and other like-minded people. You will have the opportunity to uplift your relationship with yourself and others; and to turn your challenging relationships into blessings.
